London based artist Gaynor O'Flynn has been commissioned by Brody Studios, Budapest to create a cross disciplinary work. The work, which Gaynor has titled 'Ethereal', responds to the world we invent in our mind's eye when arriving in a new city. Examining how we use the poetry of our imagination to reinterpret a moment in time & space.

Each year billions of tourist trips take place on open top buses globally. Through sound, video, image & text 'Ethereal' examines our desire to define a sense of place, embed that place in memory & connect that place to the skies.
